Coverscreen (CV)

Description:

Before conducting an individual interview in SHARE, a Coverscreen (CV) interview needs to be completed. The Coverscreen interview is a short questionnaire answered by one person living in the household (CV respondent) or not living in the household (CV proxy). The person provides information about the household type (private vs. nursing home), the household composition and the demographic characteristics of the household members. Furthermore, the CV respondent or CV proxy indicates the relationship between the household members to each other and whether the household moved to another address since the last wave of participation.

Content:

The content of the Coverscreen interview may differ slightly between longitudinal and refreshment households, and between single and multi-person households. Namely, whether a household has moved is only registered for longitudinal households, whereas the relationships between members are only registered in the case of multi-person households.

The following images show the six pages in which the Coverscreen questionnaire is divided: Introduction, Household type, Household composition, Relations, Household moved and Summary.

Section 1: Introduction

Case TT-100330-A

Introduction

IWER: Read out loud to respondent

This household has participated in a study called 50+ in Europe before. We are now re-interviewing persons who participated in the study last time. Participation and answering the questions is voluntary and the information is kept confidential. Before starting the actual interview, I need to ask a few questions about each household member, like name and date of birth and the relations to each other.

Section 2: Household type
